University of Oregon Clark Honors College – Tuesday, February 27, 2003

On February 21-22, 2003, the Clark Honors College held its Winter term 2003 Alumni Advisory Council Meeting. The meetings began at 3:00 p.m. Friday, November 8 in the Clark Honors College boardroom. The Alumni Advisory council members, resident faculty, Clark Honors College Student Association members and some staff attended this meeting. Lorraine Davis, Vice President of the University of Oregon met with the council members and attendees to discuss the Director's search. The vision for Clark Honors College, along with the director's search, were the primary topics at the Friday meeting.

After the meeting, attendees ventured over to the Knight Library Browsing room where they were entreated with wine and conversation before sitting down to a delicious dinner. Selected CHC students, faculty and staff were in attendance and all guests took the opportunity to mingle and converse over a buffet of pasta primavera and chicken tarragon. This biannual event continues to provide an excellent opportunity for new and returning Alumni Council Members to engage in the lives of current Honors College students, faculty and staff.

On Saturday, alumni members, selected students, staff and faculty met again and enjoyed a continental breakfast before addressing the morning agenda. The meeting was opened with discussion and approval of council member terms, along with the introduction of guests and CHC Alumni. Jessica Best, mentorship/internship coordinator, presented group highlights and offered council members the opportunity to comment on the programs impact. Dialog surrounding the Honors College five-year plan, campaign objectives, fundraising, and proposed Honors College expansion rounded out the agenda. The meeting was adjourned at noon and council members were treated to a luncheon before conducting mock interview with select HC students.
